

ANNA MARIA MANALO

AUTHOR OF PARANORMAL SUSPENSE
MEMOIRS AND ANTHOLOGIES

Anna Maria Manalo is a recipient of the prestigious Denis Diderot award as a writer in residence at Chateau d'Orquevaux in France. She is the first Filipina-American author in the genre of supernatural suspense and the first to be accepted into this highly selective residency.

A former screenwriter and therapist, Anna placed in the top ten and as a quarterfinalist for her screenplays "Under Tango Road," "The Tulpa Effect" and the Sci Fi thriller "Uncharted Darkness." She learned screenwriting online for three weeks.

Anna has garnered true accounts of the paranormal and supernatural in her travels over 27 countries as a culinary enthusiast. She currently resides in Bucks County, Pennsylvania with her husband and two dogs, Matisse and Quentin Dean.
